There are many qualities for students who display excellence in the classroom. Those students work hard, always strive to be the best they can be, and set the bar high for themselves and those around them. For the Fall of 2018, the freshman who best demonstrates this was Francie Eufemio, who I am recommending for Academic Excellence in Social Studies. In Civics and Current Issues, Francie was the quiet leader of her class. She set the bar high, completed her work at the highest level, set the example for the rest of the class and constantly raised the efforts of those around her. Francie came to class every day with an open mind and was eager to learn, with a contagious enthusiasm that was a true inspiration. It was my distinct pleasure to work with such an amazing young woman this past semester, and I wish her the best of luck in the future.
