The first day Janny Eng walked into my room for Precalculus, she asked for extra work. Even though she was just beginning the year, she had her eye on being extra prepared for the next. She knew there wasn’t much time in the school year to study all the concepts, so she wanted more, on her own time. This is Janny’s story in Mathematics. This year she has had a never failing exuberance for learning and deepening of her knowledge. She has turned in every single assignment, on time, meticulously complete, for the whole year. When asked to explain a concept, her profound understanding shines brightly. Fantastic work, Janny!

~ Alexis Jackson