Julian Costello

Julian is taking a double-helping of science classes this year, both chemistry and AP Physics, and both seem to come naturally to him. He learns and understands the material easily, and his sense of humor and willingness to help led to his classmates turning to him for assistance. Julian’s enthusiasm for learning is always apparent. He comes in to class asking about chemistry videos he’s watched online, asking if we can replicate the videos. His questioning nature will surely lead him to success in science in the future!
