

Shaping Alaska's Future

Academic Excellence in Mathematics

Alison Narog

Alison asks the right questions. Her questions are thoughtful, probing, and diagnostic. She asks these questions of herself, her peers, and of me. She does not ask them so she can write down what I expect her to say. She asks them so she can hone her own understanding. She asks them so she can learn. This willingness and ability to question help her to be an excellent student. Way to go Alison.
